PG READING ROOM

While collaborative study can often be productive, there are times when quiet study alone works the best.

That's why we've reserved the PG reading room for this purpose.

Designed with a variety of needs in mind, the goal is to create a serene space where students will find a spot to study independently.

THESES & DISSERTATIONS

Congratulations to all our postgraduate students who are presently on thesis or dissertation writing stage.

Here's a friendly reminder to utilise the thesis and dissertation templates sent to your email from the library.

These templates have been designed according to the university's formatting guidelines.

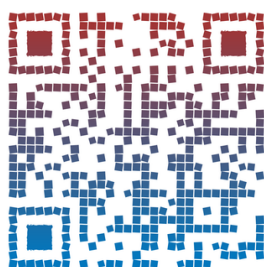

Students are encouraged to adhere to the formatting guidelines listed on the library's website as well as the templates. The template will guide and help reduce the number of formatting errors, which delay the processes of approval and final clearance.

On the other hand, supervisors are encouraged to familiarise themselves with the BUIID formatting guidelines. This will enable them to make corrections and recommendations to students where necessary.

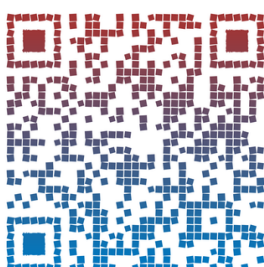

Kindly note that the library will not accept theses and dissertations that do not match the university's formatting guidelines.

All the best to the postgraduate students as you take a huge step toward your future.

EMBARGO

An "embargo" is a restriction placed on a thesis or dissertation that allows full text to be hidden, and only the title and abstract will be released to the public.

The full text of the work is kept hidden for a limited period of time for a minimum of 24 months. It is mandatory for students to sign the embargo form at the point of submission to the library.
